

London, Ontario

London, with a population of over 50,000, is one of the most important Cities in Canada, as well as the most beautiful. Its broad, well shaded avenues, and bright homes, and its situation has earned it the name of the "Hub of Western Ontario." Springbank Park, five miles down the River Thames, is a natural beauty spot, and Port Stanley on Lake Erie, one hour's ride by train or trolley, is London's summer resort. While being a large manufacturing City, it is in the centre of a district of the finest agricultural land in Ontario. London is the educational centre of Western Ontario, with its University, colleges and schools. London owns its own water works system, and in addition, its own electrical distribution system, taking its power from the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Published exclusively for

S. H. KNOX & CO.

By THE VALENTINE & SONS UNITED PUBLISHING CO. LTD.
MONTREAL & TORONTO.

Dundas Street, showing Bank of Commerce, London, Ont.

St. Paul's Cathedral and Cronyn Hall, London, Ont., Canada

Victoria Hospital, London, Ont., Canada

The Armouries, London, Canada

London Medical College, London, Ont., Canada

River Thames, London, Ont., Canada

Queen's Avenue, looking West from Wellington St., London, Canada

First Methodist Church, London, Ont., Canada

Victoria Park Driveway, London, Ont., Canada

Asylum for Insane, London, Ont., Canada

Custom House, London, Ont., Canada

Normal School, South London, Ont., Canada

Blackfriars Mill, London, Ont., Canada

Merrymaking, Springbank Park, London, Ont., Canada

Richmond Street, looking North from the Grand Trunk Railway Station, London, Canada

First Presbyterian Church, London, Ont., Canada

Public Library, London, Ont., Canada

Collegiate Institute, London, Ont., Canada

The Fountain, Victoria Park, London, Ont., Canada

Queen's Avenue, London, Ont., Canada

First Congregational Church, London, Ont., Canada

St. Joseph's Hospital, London, Ont., Canada

On the Thames, Dorchester, near London, Ont., Canada

Y.M.C.A. Building, London, Canada

Central Avenue, looking East from Wellington Street, London, Ont., Canada

C. P. R. Station, London, Ont., Canada

Springbank Park, London, Canada

Tecumseh House, London, Canada

Dundas Street, looking West from Richmond Street, London, Canada

Russian Guns captured by the British at the Siege of Sebastopol, Victoria Park, London, Ont., Canada

Springbank Power House, London, Canada

